MASS SURRENDERS MARK LAST DAYS OF THE WAR IN GERMANY

Reds, Yanks and British Link Up in the Final Drive

Whole Divisions of Nazi Troops Rush To Give Up

Total of More than 134,000 Prisoners Taken in Berlin

By ROMNEY WHEELER

LONDON, Friday, May 4 (AP)—Russian troops collapsed the last German resistance in North-Central Germany yesterday, linking with British forces on a sixty-five mile front south of the Baltic in a thirty-mile surge that wiped out a huge enemy pocket between Rostock and Hamburg.

At least three enemy divisions surrendered to the combined Russian and British forces in the clean-up of Mecklenburg province.

More than 10,000 demoralized Nazi soldiers surrendered to the Red army alone as Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army and Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops joined for the first time between the Baltic port of Weismar and Wittenberge on the Elbe river, sixty-two miles northwest of Berlin.

New Link with Yanks

At the same time, forces of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Russian army, co-conquerors of Berlin, joined up with the U. S. Ninth army on a thirty-three mile front west of the Nazi capital's smoking ruins.

The junction of American, British and Russian forces now extends across Northern and Central Germany from an almost solid 200-mile front from Wismar south to the Elbe northwest of Dresden.

In Berlin, another 64,000 stunned and battle-weary German troops emerged from the subways and sewers of the rubble city to hand over their weapons, almost doubling the huge bag of German prisoners herded into Red army cages since the surrender of the capital.

134,000 Prisoners Taken
More than 134,000 German troops had been counted since Berlin's capitulation at 3 p. m. Wednesday, and Moscow dispatches said still more were being marched away. By Moscow's accounts, 507,000 German troops have been killed or captured in the struggle in and around the capital.

As the hush of a dead nation settled over the once proud capital of Adolf Hitler's Continental empire, the Red army set sullen German troops to work clearing up the appalling shambles.

Rokossovsky's race to a junction with Montgomery's British second army and Zhukov's sweep to the Elbe southeast of Wittenberge left a 500-square mile German pocket holding out west and southwest of Berlin below Brandenburg.

German Group Isolated
But this German group was isolated and without hope of relief.

The new junction left only German forces in Western Czechoslovakia and Eastern Austria in a position to prolong the fight against the Red Army.

On the northeastern fringe of the Germans' tottering southern redoubt, the Russians seized the mining center of Silesien (Teschen), the last enemy-held stronghold in southwestern Poland and as the German line cleared all of prewar Poland.

Cieszyn, partly in Old Poland and partly in Czechoslovakia, was captured by Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko's Fourth Ukrainian army, Premier Stalin announced in one of two orders of the day. Shortly after the Munich agreement in 1938 the Poles, with Hitler's consent, occupied the Czechoslovakian part of the town and its neighboring coal-mining area.

Approximately 150 square miles of this area remained to be cleared. The Warsaw provisional government, with Soviet approval, recently agreed to return the Cieszyn mines to Czechoslovakia when the area is totally liberated.

Sells Homemade Wine To the Wrong Man

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 3 (AP)—Ray V. Gaver, a Wolfsville farmer, was fined $100 by Magistrate Harry E. Snyder today on his guilty plea to selling homemade wine without a license.

He told the magistrate he sold the wine to his butter and egg customers. He made the mistake of selling a gallon to Federal Agent Robert A. Wade.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Coining of a ten-cent piece bearing a likeness of the late President Roosevelt was proposed today in a bill introduced by Rep. Morrison (D-La.).

Hitler Is Not In Berlin, Red Speaker Says

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 3 (AP)—The mystery of what happened to Adolf Hitler deepened today when the well-known Soviet commentator Nikolai Tikhonov wrote in Pravda: "Hitler is not in Berlin."

At the same time, Russian troops continued a stone by stone search for the German leader's body in Berlin's smoking ruins, and considerable skepticism was expressed here of captured Nazi propagandist Hans Fritzsche's assertion that Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels had committed suicide.

Tikhonov's Pravda report, possibly rhetorical, said:

Will Continue Search

"Whether Hitler fled to the Devil's Nest or to the other world to the embraces of some Fascist protectorate, it is all the same. He is not in Berlin. But we will find out what actually happened to him. And if he has fled, we will find him no matter where he has found shelter."

Hitler mystery remained foremost in the minds of Russian people. Most refused to believe he was dead. The results of a poll of a cross-section of Muscovites:

A policeman: "He's hidden. I don't think he's dead."

A naval lieutenant: "I'm sure he's hiding in a submarine. He's going to do a Jules Verne."

A Red air force captain: "I just left Berlin. I don't think he's dead. It's a Nazi trick. I'm sure he's safe."

Blames Hitler for Wounds
A Red army private: "I have been wounded five times. I blame Hitler for each wound. If he is dead it is too bad because death is too good for him."

A student for the institute of international relations: "I don't believe he is dead but it is possible. It is possible he killed himself, but it is possible he is still alive."

Surrender of Nazi General Bores GI

ON THE ELBE RIVER IN GERMANY, May 3 (AP)—The German general came down the river through the rubble at Tangermunde, where thousands were trying to walk over the girders of a wrecked railroad bridge.

The general came down in an amphibious jeep, with a big white flag flying. He stood on the vehicle like an admiral on his bridge and crossed the river to where a matter-of-fact GI gave him a cold stare and asked "what the hell do you want?"

Germans Seeking Yank Protection In Fear of Reds

By WES GALLAGHER

ON THE ELBE RIVER IN GERMANY, May 3 (AP)—Germany's once proud Wehrmacht is dying a shameful death on the banks of the Elbe. SS Panzer troops—once Germany's elite—paddle across the river in makeshift rafts. Sometimes they swim, leaving their medal-decked tunics behind.

The swarm of soldiers clogging the east bank by the tens of thousands is more than a beaten army. It is a fear-stricken horde—afraid of the Russians with a fear that only a guilty conscience can inspire.

Surrender to Americans
Ten thousand surrendered to the Twenty-ninth division in twenty-four hours. One hundred thousand are in the process of surrendering to the Eighty-second airborne division, which is across the river. Three thousand surrendered to one regiment of the One Hundred Second division.

And their coming has created a grave problem for American military.

Japanese Falling Back on Tarakan, MacArthur Says

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, Friday, May 4 (AP)—Tank-led Australian invaders of Tarakan reached the approaches of Lingkas town and the airfield Wednesday, their second day on the little port island off Borneo. In the Philippines the fall of Davao city to the Americans appeared imminent.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said the veteran Aussies, moving with close air and naval support, expanded their beachheads and drove to within a few hundred yards of the Tarakan airfield. They were on the outskirts of Lingkas town.

Penetrate Davao City
On Mindanao island, meantime, Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's Twenty-fourth United States Infantry Division penetrated Davao city, a major port of the Philippines, as the Japanese garrison retreated northward.

Apparently the fierce fight that had been expected for Davao city, a center of prewar Japanese activity in the archipelago, had failed to develop. The enemy evidently chose to withdraw.

Another airfield south of Davao was taken. This was the fourth airfield seized by the Yanks on the western shore of Davao gulf.

The Australian invaders of Tarakan still were finding only scant resistance.

The Aussies, members of the famed Australian Ninth division, were on the outskirts of Lingkas, principal city of the small island which is about 1,000 miles from Singapore.

Tanks Aid Infantry
Tanks assisted the infantry in smashing Japanese resistance pockets.

Unloading of supplies, unhindered by air opposition, proceeded rapidly, the communique said.

Heavy and medium bombers from the Philippines, flying in support of the invasion operation, struck at airdromes, bivouacs and defenses at Jesselton, Kudat, Sandakan and Tawao, on Borneo.

The Allied troops, which included some Dutch Indonesians, met no resistance when they landed Tuesday on Tarakan's oil soaked sands and today's communique failed to mention any organized opposition. The Japanese had been caught by surprise and apparently had been unable to unite their forces for a stand.

Penetrate Davao

Penetration of Davao city, Japanese stronghold in Southern Mindanao of the Philippines, was announced by MacArthur. Strong units of the United States Twenty-fourth Division, which had reached the city's outskirts Tuesday, made the entrance.

Hard Coal Mines Are Taken Over By Government

Ickes Takes Drastic Action in Effort To Settle Dispute

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The government tonight seized the nation's anthracite mines, strikebound in a contract dispute.

Acting on orders from President Truman, Secretary of Interior Ickes proclaimed that he had taken formal possession of the mines and breakers owned by 363 companies, all located in Pennsylvania.

Fuel Crisis Threatened

"A breakdown in wage negotiations threatened a fuel crisis that would impair public health and impede the progress of the war next winter," said a statement issued by the Solid Fuels Administration, headed by Ickes.

Ickes ordered the flag of the United States raised above these mines and breakers and mine whistles blown for work Monday morning.

(A breaker is an establishment where coal is broken up.)

Ickes urged all employees to return to work "producing fuel to avert cold homes and shops which would seriously handicap the war with Japan next winter."

The operating heads of the coal companies were designated as federal operating managers.

Truman Takes Action

Wage negotiations between the operators and the United Mine workers remained deadlocked in New York as the president issued his proclamation authorizing Ickes to take control.

Mr. Truman's proclamation said that "after investigation I find and proclaim that there are interruptions or threatened interruptions in the operation of the mines producing anthracite as a result of existing or threatened strikes and other labor disturbances; that the coal produced by such mines is required by the war effort; that the war effort will be unduly impeded or delayed by such interruptions; and that the exercise as hereinafter specified of the powers vested in me is necessary to insure in the interest of the war effort the operation of such mines."

Doenitz Believed In Kiel Planning His Next Moves

May Fight in Scandinavian Countries or Surrender to the Allies

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—Germany's new fuhrer, Grand Admiral Doenitz, was reported to have fled to the naval base of Kiel today as British forces swept through capitulated Hamburg, fifty miles to the south, and victorious Russian troops searched for Hitler's body in the ruins of Berlin.

So swift was the disintegration of German resistance and so chaotic the general situation inside the Reich that it appeared tonight there might be no necessity to negotiate a formal surrender.

A Stockholm dispatch said Doenitz and his new foreign minister, Count Ludwig Schwerin von Krosigk, were conferring at Kiel with Josef Terboven, Nazi commissioner for Norway, and Werner Best, German minister to Denmark, on the possibility of making a final stand in those Scandinavian countries.

150,000 Nazis in Norway
The chief obstacle standing in the way of a declared peace was believed to be the German force in Norway, estimated by responsible quarters at 150,000 troops.

Stockholm heard that negotiations were in progress to bring about the surrender of the Norway Nazis without bloodshed. Norwegian Patriots in an order of the day called upon the people to offer no provocation to the Germans which might diminish prospects of an orderly end to the occupation.

Norwegian sources in London reported that Quisling's followers were trying frantically to soften the feelings of the Norwegian people toward them and claimed that the German troops' will to fight was based chiefly on their terror over the possibility of falling into Russian hands.

Denmark Force Powerless

Amid the intense speculation over Admiral Doenitz's intentions there was a growing tendency to believe that Denmark could be written off as a scene of a stubborn Nazi stand. A Danish Free Press dispatch declared that dissolution of the Wehrmacht in that little country was obvious, and the Luxembourg radio declared that many German commanders were surrendering to the mayors of Danish towns.

With Hamburg and its powerful radio station in British hands, it appeared logical that Doenitz, the navy man, would establish his temporary capital at Kiel. Possibly with prior knowledge, RAF bombers pounded the city last night.

Shortly before making their final broadcast from Hamburg, the Nazis announced that Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia, had been declared a "hospital town," or open city, and that "negotiations for the reorganization of the political life of the protectorate have begun."

250,000,000 Will Look to U. S. for Food

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, said today 250,000,000 people in Europe will have to receive supplemental food "just to exist."

"The United States," he added to a reporter, "must of necessity be the main source of supply."

Bomb Jay Mainland

GUAM, Friday, May 4 (AP)—Between fifty and 100 Superfortresses bombed airfields on Kyushu and Shikoku, two of the main Japanese islands, in a daylight attack this morning.

The legislation was in the form of a resolution offered by Rep. Flannagan (D-Va.). It would have strengthened the Tydings amendment to the original draft law by prohibiting local draft boards from taking into consideration the relative essentiality of farm and non-farm work.

The original Tydings amendment, which remains on the law books, blueprinted a procedure for deferment of farm workers deemed to be essential and irreplaceable.

The Flannagan resolution went a step further by making it mandatory that such registrants be deferred "without consideration of any other circumstance or condition whatsoever."

In refusing to approve it, Mr. Truman said it was "the essence" of the original draft law "that no one shall be placed in a favored position, and thus safeguarded from the hazards of war, because of his economic, occupational or other status."

Hamburg Falls, Germans Declare Kiel Open City As 150,000 Nazis Quit

By ROBERT EUNSON

PARIS, Friday, May 4 (AP)—Mass surrenders swept through German armies of the north yesterday as the fall of Hamburg sounded the knell of all resistance east of the great port and the enemy high command itself declared the famed naval base of Kiel an open city.

More than 150,000 Germans laid down their arms to the British Second and United States Ninth Armies along the Elbe by noon Thursday and thousands of others were giving up or being driven to their deaths as they tried to flee by sea.

BRITISH NEAR DENMARK

British tanks slashed on northeast within twenty miles of Denmark, churning over roads strewn with the burned out hulks of 800 vehicles caught in a tornado of aerial bombardment.

The British last were reported beyond Neumuenster, sixteen miles south of Kiel, running roughshod through all the debris of a broken and beaten army.

The Luxembourg radio said the British had crossed the Kiel canal, and wholly unconfirmed Stockholm broadcasts recorded by the Federal Communications Commission said the British had reached Eckenfoerde, on the Kiel bay fifteen miles northwest of the city.

(CBS Correspondent Charles Shaw reported from Malmo, Sweden, that British troops were reported to have crossed the South Danish frontier.)

ALLIED ARMIES UNITE

Allied commanders wrote off all enemy opposition in the north as the British and the Americans joined up with the Russians on a solid sixty-five mile front stretching southward from Wismar on the Baltic.

There was chaos as German ships quit Kiel for Oslo and other Norwegian refuges under a raking fire from Allied fighter-bombers which sank or damaged sixty-four cargo-sized vessels.

Kiel bay was lighted throughout the night by burning vessels, and on southeast as far as Luebeck British troops with guns ready waited to seize German troops either swimming or trying to reach shore by boat.

A field dispatch said a German Dunkerque was in progress on both the east and west coasts of Schleswig-Holstein as the Germans shoved off in anything that would float, apparently heading for a last stand in Norway.

FLENSBURG AN OPEN CITY

The German communique also made an open city of Flensburg at the Danish frontier, indicating that the enemy intended to make no stand short of the border.

Resistance also was breaking up in what is left of the southern redoubt, with the United States Seventh Army hammering twenty-one miles deep into Austria to within seven miles of the big communications center of Linz.

(The Linz radio was heard broadcasting that the city was under fire, apparently by the Americans since the Russians from the east still were a considerable distance away.)

In concert with the Seventh army, the American Third army was shredding what remains of the Nazi Redoubt in Bavaria.

Advance on Salzburg

Breaking loose unopposed on a superhighway east of Munich, the Seventh army last was reported twenty-five miles west of Salzburg and Berchtesgaden, bastions within the redoubt, while the Third army was the same distance from Salzburg on the north.

The Third army likewise had driven into Czechoslovakia as much as six miles along a fifty-mile front, seeking out the Nazis who, according to the Hamburg radio before it quit the air, were organizing for a stand to the death.

Surrender fever also gripped the German armies of the south, a field dispatch reporting that one Seventh army division alone captured 50,000 troops.

Entire Divisions Quit
It was impossible to count the prisoners taken in Northern Germany since Thursday noon, supreme headquarters said. One entire division surrendered to the British and another to the Americans.

(The London Daily Express said the Germans had quit in such numbers that Britain's facilities for feeding and housing them were inadequate.)

Only Chaos Remains
"There is nothing but chaos and disintegration on land and sea," one observer said of the northern front. "It is hard to tell just where our tanks are now. They last were reported near Neumuenster, but other columns were driving on by, headed for the Kiel canal."

The Canadian First army was only four miles from Emden, and to the east two other ports, Bremerhaven and Cuxhaven, were threatened by British columns fighting west of Bremerhaven, which is twenty-three miles east of Bremerhaven and thirty miles southeast of Cuxhaven. The Paris radio without confirmation elsewhere said the surrender of the entire German army was imminent.

American Naval Casualties 5,551 In Okinawa Campaign Nimitz Says

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, Friday, May 4 (AP)—American naval casualties of 5,551—including 1,131 killed—were reported today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz for the Okinawa campaign as the ground fighting reached another vicious near-deadlock.

Two "light units" of the Pacific fleet off the strategic Ryukyu island were sunk in an attack last night by four flights of enemy warplanes, the communique announced.

Nimitz gave the naval casualty toll, through Wednesday, as 1,131 killed, 2,816 wounded and 1,604 missing. This includes casualties from the start of the Okinawa operation on March 18 when carrier planes struck Japan's inland sea in a supporting move. Okinawa itself was invaded April 1.

The figures, preliminary and still incomplete, brought the total announced American casualties, counting soldiers and marines, to 16,964—including 2,658 dead.

The fight on Southern Okinawa raged in full fury yesterday as Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner Jr.'s Tenth army hurled itself against tough Japanese defenses. Only the First marine division of Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle reported limited gains. Elsewhere the Yanks were

1,200 American Prisoners Freed By Infantrymen

By KENNETH L. DIXON

ALTENGRABOW PRISON CAMP, Germany, May 3 (AP)—All the major mishaps that American troops have suffered since the war began are paraded in retrospect out of this prison camp this afternoon as the Eighty-third infantry division liberated more than 1,200 long imprisoned Yanks and began freeing more than 19,000 Allied war prisoners.

Under flags of truce and by arrangement with a German colonel, commander of the camp, we traveled twenty miles behind enemy lines with Eighty-third Division trucks, ambulances and jeeps to effect the liberation.

Prisoners Show Joy

As shouting cheering Yank prisoners climbed aboard the trucks they were asked where they were captured and their answers told a three-year tale of ill-fated phases of a war which now spells only success for Allied and other American armies.

"Kassarine Pass!" shouted scores. Others told of other places in Tunisia—Sidi Bou Said and Faid Pass and Hill 60.

There were boys from Bizerte and soldiers from Salerno. Cassino's grim crop was represented and several rangers reported on that fatal night of June 30, 1944, when they struck at Cassino from the outer rim of the Anzio beachhead and lost two battalions of the nation's crack troops.

Even Grab K Rations

Not all were from such long gone battles. Hundreds of happy doughboys—actually grabbing gleefully at K rations for the first time in their army lives—were victims of the Ardennes breakthrough last December and January. Hundreds more had spent only a couple of weeks or so as enemy prisoners.

For the most part the prisoners said they had been treated "fairly decently" and especially well during recent weeks. The nearer the Russians came to the camp, the more the treatment improved.

Boyhood Friends Have Reunion in England

Pfc. Mac George, RFD 1, Cumberland, and Pvt. Paul Morgan, LaVale, who were boyhood chums and graduated in the same class at Allegany high school, met recently in England and spent their two-day furloughs together, according to a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. McComas George, parents of Pfc. George.

When Pvt. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, was released from a hospital in England recently, he learned that his friend was also in England, and arranged to pay him a surprise visit.

Pvt. Morgan is with the infantry, while Pfc. George is serving in the air corps.

Hard Coal Mines

acceded to a War Labor Board order for extension of the pact pending negotiation of a new agreement.

Will Observe Old Contract

Ickes as solid fuels administrator was directed to operate the mines in accordance with the terms and conditions in effect at the time possession is taken, which would mean under the terms of the old contract.

The secretary was directed to permit the mine managements to continue with their functions to the maximum degree possible.

Earlier in the evening, Secretary Ickes as solid fuels administrator seized three bituminous mines of the Carter Coal Company in West Virginia. SPA said strikes in these three diggings resulted from the "company's failure to sign and accept the new wage contract executed by the remainder of the soft coal industry."

That makes a total of 239 bituminous mines now held by the government. The others were taken last month during strikes.

Ickes issued the following statement on the anthracite situation:

Ickes's Position

"Every coal mine employee and every operator should fully realize that the defeat of Germany will not end the fuel emergency, and that the full production of anthracite is essential to speeding victory over Japan."

"Every day the anthracite mines do not work means that we shall lose enough domestic coal to heat 30,000 homes for a year. Production lost now means colder homes next winter for the men and women who make arms and supplies for our fighting men in the great industrial centers of the Northeastern and mid-Atlantic states."

"Because great quantities of fuel oil and coke have gone into more direct war uses, anthracite has had to take on a huge extra heating burden. Since sufficient manpower is lacking to meet fully the swollen anthracite requirements, domestic consumers already have been limited to four-fifths of their normal quantity of the sizes of hard coal primarily used."

"We can't win a war if we let the men and women who make arms and supplies and their families freeze next winter. We have no other coal which can be substituted for anthracite without taking bituminous coal away from industry, which already is critically short of fuel."

We shall have no more oil next winter than we had last winter when homes were heated with about three-fourths of normal requirements. Nor can we take coke away from the steel mills."

"We are already asking the workers in our war plants to do without one ton of coal out of every five that they would normally burn. To ask him to sacrifice more would threaten impairment of their health and loss of war production."

"I want the anthracite miners to know these facts. Every man should be back on the job Monday morning, producing every ton of precious fuel he possibly can to help us speed up the licking we're giving the Japs."

Homemakers Club Honors Famous Mothers

Tableaux of famous mothers featured the May meeting of the Valley Road Homemakers Club Wednesday in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Lawrence Reed was commentator and gave a short sketch for each mother. Mrs. Gray Koegel portrayed Miss Anna Jarvis, founder of Mother's day; Mrs. A. E. Kesacker, the Pilgrimage mother; Mrs. John S. Cook and her granddaughter, Carol Ann Linger, pioneer mother and child; Mrs. R. D. Robinson, Whistler's mother; Mrs. Robert McMurdo, immigrant mother; Mrs. George Kraft, a Southern mammy singing a Southern melody; Mrs. O. O. Wilson, Mme. Curie; Mrs. C. E. Feiser, grandmother of 1880; Mrs. Richard Cook and Michael Keith, modern mother and child; Mrs. Elsie Kellogg, the late Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt.

A demonstration on making biscuits, rolls and salad dressing was given by Miss Maude A. Bean, who was presented with a gift in appreciation of her twenty years of service as county home demonstration agent. The gift was created by Mrs. William Maddocks. Mrs. E. O. Fritch announced that the club members will meet at 1 o'clock May 8 and go on the Prosbury bus to visit the Queen City Glass factory. Reports were also given by Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Frank Schulte.

Special Program Honors Miss Maude A. Bean

Miss Maude A. Bean was honored by the Bedford Road Homemakers Club in recognition of her twenty years of service as county home demonstration agent here, at the meeting earlier in the week at the home of Mrs. Amos Valentine. An original poem, written by Mrs. William C. Straw, was presented with each member reciting one verse. Miss Bean responded with a talk on her work since coming here from Iowa.

A discussion of the San Francisco conference led by Mrs. Frederick Grown, Mrs. C. W. McDermott, and the executive board meeting and Mrs. W. O. Wolford distributed canning sugar applications; readings were given by Mrs. T. C. Wotring and Mrs. W. C. Light. A short talk was also given by Mrs. Edward Lewis, president of the County Council of Homemakers.

Miss Dodge To Take Part In May Day Festival

Miss Nancy Dodge will take part in one of the acrobatic numbers to be presented at the circus for the Wilson College May queen tomorrow. The forty-fourth annual May day festival also includes a horse show, a carnival, faculty-student games and a sophomore-freshman promenade.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Dodge, LaVale, Miss Dodge is a sophomore at Wilson and is a member of the college orchestra.

Woman's Sport Club To Mark Anniversary

The tenth anniversary of the Woman's Sport Club will be observed with a buffet supper and party this evening at the Algonquin hotel. Mrs. Eleanor Lavin will preside at the supper to be served at 7 o'clock after which a special program will be presented.

Bridge and 500 will feature the entertainment during the evening. Mrs. Agnes Hersch is chairman of arrangements and is being assisted by Miss Margaret Stewart and Mrs. Ruth Upchurch.

Lurana Unit Names Council Delegates

County delegates to the CSMC council were named at the meeting of Lurana Unit earlier in the week at the home of Miss Louise Farrell, Cumberland street. They are Miss Rosemary Lindner and Miss Jeanette Raphael.

Plans were formulated for a dinner party May 10 and Miss Anne Burns was appointed chairman of arrangements. Sunday will be observed as communion Sunday.

Many Germans Surrender

Meanwhile from Berlin, Soviet correspondents said the German capital was covered with white flags of surrender.

A Pravda correspondent wrote: "German soldiers are crawling out of basements, underground tunnels and subway stations holding white flags and gathering silently under the eyes of Russian tommygunners. The Germans are dirty, unshaven and depressed. Many of them show evidence that they are glad the war is over. Others bow when meeting Russian soldiers but their general air is one of deep depression."

"Russian troops flocked out in Berlin's streets today," the dispatch went on "and they were freshly shaven with their shoes shined and uniforms torn in the last days of siege mended."

Nazis Surrender Weapons

Near the Brandenburg gate, the Germans were forced to surrender their weapons to Red army men.

"The whole square soon became an arsenal," the correspondent said. "After surrendering their weapons, the Germans were headed for the outskirts of the city, columns of men stretching for many miles."

"The Germans look sadly from side to side at their wrecked capital," he said. "It must be pointed out that Allied aviation worked hard over Berlin. The center of the city is badly smashed up—the Tiergarten, the Wilhelmstrasse and all government buildings and even industrial districts."

Reporting on the aerial battles that had raged over Berlin, two Russian correspondents said: "The Germans lost hundreds of their aces over Berlin. There were days when a thousand planes from each side appeared over the capital."

W. E. Jenkins Returns to Duty As Fire Fighter

When William E. "Ed" Jenkins, 633 Lincoln street, returned to duty at Central Fire Company No. 1, March 14, motor equipment of the local fire stations began to hum a new tune.

Jenkins, driver and equipment maintenance man of Central company, recently returned from two and one-half year's service in the navy.

Although well over the draft age, the veteran blaze battler enlisted in Uncle Sam's navy in the early part of the war and participated in a few of the dozen assaults against the Japs in the Southwest Pacific. He was overseas twenty-three months.

Until the latter part of February, the local mechanic-fire fighter was known as Motor Mechanic Mate First Class William E. Jenkins and his job was to keep the Diesel power plants of the destroyer to which he was attached in first class condition.

Beginning with Guadalcanal, the destroyer to which Jenkins was assigned participated in almost every landing engagement against the Nipponese prior to two Jima. To name a few, there were Bougainville, Treasury Island, Saipan, Tinian and Guam.

Close calls were numerous, Jenkins recalls, and several near misses from aerial torpedoes almost sent the heavy sea buggy to the bottom. "Most of our trouble came from the air—from Jap torpedoes and dive bombers, although on a couple of occasions shore batteries added to our discomfort," Jenkins stated.

The local fireman cited an incident in action at Tinian where the whole bridge of an American ship was wiped away by Japanese guns ashore. And the action occurred right in the spot vacated by the destroyer on which Jenkins was floating a short time before.

"Ed's" discharge doesn't mean that the Jenkins family is finished in the war because William E. Jr. intends to take up where his father left off. The younger Jenkins, just turned 18, was given his pre-industrial physical at Baltimore yesterday. He is a senior at Allegany high and expects to receive his diploma before he dons a uniform.

Before joining the navy, September 2, 1942, the elder Jenkins had been driving and servicing Cumberland's fire trucks for eighteen years. He is the husband of Mrs. Goldie Jenkins, 626 Shriver avenue.

Hamburg Falls

minent and, quoting "unimpeachable sources," said Prime Minister Churchill would go to Germany personally "for the final surrender."

The radio earlier said that Admiral Karl Doenitz, Hitler's reputed successor, and Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler once more had approached the Allies, this time offering to surrender to the Russians as well.

(The Swedish home radio heard by the Federal Communications Commission said the British had crossed the Kiel canal and reached Eckenforde, on the Kiel bay fifteen miles northwest of the great naval base of the same name, where Doenitz reportedly has taken refuge.)

(There was no indication from other quarters of such a rapid British advance, however.)

A dispatch from Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters said an armada of several hundred U-boats had been spotted and attacked by British pilots as it fled the doomed Baltic ports for Norway.

Five more junctions between the British and Americans from the west and the Russians from the east were made east of Hamburg, virtually ending all organized resistance in the plains and lake country northwest of Berlin.

Line Up for Surrender

A dispatch from the United States Ninth Army front said the once-proud German army was dying a shameful death on the Elbe, with generals standing in line to surrender and SS Panzer troops—once the Reich's best—padding rafts or swimming across by the thousands to give up to the Americans before the Russians got them.

There still was fighting in the south as the United States Third and Seventh armies cracked the last bit of German soil still under the Nazi swastika.

While the Third Army was twenty-five miles north of Salzburg and forty miles from Berchtesgaden, the Seventh army broke across the Inn river from the west and last was reported twenty-five miles from both these citadels of the now shrunken "national redoubt."

Fanatics Still Fight

Unconditional surrender of the Germans in Western Austria supposedly wiped out all resistance on this sector of the Seventh army front, but as the Americans fought east along the main east-west highway through the Alps to within five miles of Innsbruck, civilians came out and told them fanatic SS troops meant to defend the city.

Hamburg's own radio was the first to announce the big port's fall, issuing an order under Doenitz's name declaring it an open city, the first in all the Reich to take this easy way out of war.

British troops marched into Hamburg at 1 p. m. The surrender of Hamburg also embraced an arc stretching for 10 miles north of the city.

An announcement read in German in behalf of the British commander declared that "any resistance by the populace will be crushed by force of arms."

All traffic was halted at noon. A curfew was imposed. Only employees of the city's electric and water systems were allowed in the streets, and these had to have passes.

The British orders were enforced by Hamburg's own police, with Tommies at their backs.

With Hamburg went the last authoritative German radio station in the north. It read the German communiques and from it other stations took their cue.

In its swan song, the Hamburg radio said "it is doubtful whether we will again come on the air with news. We take leave of our listeners. Long live Hamburg. Long live Germany."

It signed off with the German national anthem, "Deutschland Uber Alles," omitting the usual Nazi "Horst Wessel Lied."

Germans Seeking

tary commanders. The American Ninth army does not want them but they come anyway and military men are afraid the Russians may feel the Western Allies are giving shelter to the enemy.

Every effort has been made to discourage surrenders.

The Germans came up to the river under white flags, row across, and say they are going to surrender, and the doughboys can't do anything but accept them. Enemy generals come up to regimental command posts to await their turn and nothing is accepted but unconditional surrender.

Feel War Is Over

Anyone standing on the Elbe couldn't help but feel the war is over, V-E declaration or no.

That enemy generals are standing in line is no figure of speech. At one regimental command post of the One Hundred Second Division there were two generals, one a Panzer army commander, and half a dozen colonels all trying to surrender their units. The two generals weren't speaking to one another. All sat with hard Prussian stares while the interpreter for the Panzer general made it clear that the other general "had no rating at all," that he had no authority and that, besides, the Panzer general was there first.

Further up the river were similar scenes on the fronts of the Eighty-fourth and Twenty-ninth divisions. Late yesterday the two divisions were treated to one of the rarest battle sights of the war near Wittenberge when Russian cossacks riding tanks and horses swept down the banks forcing the Germans before them. In panic the Germans stripped and plunged into the icy water, where several were drowned.

Allies Slaughter Fleeing Germans In "Dunkerque"

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—

Germans attempting to flee the Reich by sea toward Denmark and Norway were slaughtered today by American, British and Canadian planes which sank or damaged more than sixty-four ships in day-long attacks of the Baltic coast of Schleswig-Holstein.

"Another Dunkerque" flared described it, only this time it was Germans trying to get away and the Allies hitting their jumbled convoys of ships with bombs and rockets "like shooting fish in a barrel."

United States Air Force rocket-firing Thunderbolts and fighters-bombers joined this afternoon in the massacre which was started by the RAF last night with raids on the Kiel naval base.

The Ninth reported hitting eleven German ships of transport or cargo size and many other smaller craft.

The Nazis set sail from all available ports in every type of ship they could muster—from barges to 10,000-ton cargo ships and troop carriers, and even submarines—in a frantic effort to escape the British and Russian armies, now linked up east of Luebeck and closing in on the last Nazi-held ports and Germany's few remaining U-boat lairs.

Denmark or Norway—possibly even Sweden—appeared to be the destination of the fugitives, who might be trying to reach a site where Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz possibly planned a death stand.

Mrs. McCoy's Condition Is About the Same

Mrs. Cleo McCoy, 307 North Centre street, was "just about the same" last evening in Allegany hospital where she was admitted Tuesday evening after she became ill and collapsed on Bow street.

Still unconscious Wednesday, she regained consciousness several times yesterday but lapsed again, attaches reported.

Measure Amending Judges' Pension Law Vetoed by Governor

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 3 (AP)—

Governor O'Connor vetoed today eight bills enacted by the 1945 General Assembly, among them Senate Bill 123 which would have amended the judges' pension law in favor of a judge appointed prior to 1943.

The chief executive said in a lengthy veto message that the judges pensions bill, although "introduced for the avowed purpose of providing a judge's pension for a former member of the bench who had served through appointment," would affect "an entire group of judges to their detriment."

"If the enactment affected only the individual case," the governor declared, "I would give executive approval to it x x x but the amendment to the law would make an important change in the existing system x x x."

That change, the chief executive explained, would have consisted in the elimination of a provision now in effect giving judges credit for the period served by them through appointment if they are subsequently elected.

Other measures vetoed included House Bills 109 and 110, war veteran legislation whose provisions are covered by other bills already approved; House Bills 203 and 375, two Baltimore county local measures; House Bill 628, a measure proposed by the state game warden, and Senate Bill 424, a measure dealing with register of wills offices whose provisions are covered by another measure.

Children Often Encouraged To Be Public Nuisances

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Will mothers never realize that a spoiled child is not the gift from heaven, the miracle of delight, that the little angel appears to both sides of his family? Consider this letter:

"The lady to whom I'm engaged has a boy child of four, the apple of her eye, but a pretty rotten apple to the rest of us. The child was born after his father's death and has been humored, pampered, idolized, not only by his mother but by the families on both sides. In addition to this, the youngster has been exposed to that most malignant form of child rearing, in which the infant nuisance is never corrected. Grownups must stop talking to listen to the oracle's words of wisdom, and the plague is encouraged to express his reactions on every subject.

"Why don't you drink milk? Milk might make you pretty," the child said to a worthy great-aunt, the head of a D.A.R. chapter, who had long been noted as a middle-aged beauty. The rest of the company may have enjoyed this one, but not the lady D.A.R. Seeing that he got his audience he went down the line, scattering his personal criticisms right and left.

"When I protest to his mother about his bad manners, she tells me I'm old-fashioned and that children are no longer brought up on a curbed bit. The other evening we had a very plain talk and she said she had begun to doubt the wisdom of our marriage, that I did not seem to love Sonny-boy as much as a stepfather should. And I'm beginning to think maybe she's right. What do you think of our chances of happiness?

N. W."

Your chances of happiness seem to me about nil. The set-up of an adoring mother and a thoroughly spoiled child is as unfortunate for the child as for everyone else. Time and a cruel, hard world will apply the slipper to Mother's spoiled darling, though Mother doesn't realize this when she is encouraging him to be public nuisance No. 1.

You, as a potential stepfather, had better regard the process from the sidelines, rather than have a hand in it. Don't marry that lady

U. S. GIVES GOOD HOUSEWIVES BONUS OF RED POINTS

Patriotic American housewives every day are getting extra red points for doing a job that they alone can do for this country.

For those who wish to get this red-point bonus, here's what to do. Save every drop of your used kitchen fats. Turn them in to your butcher promptly. For every pound, he'll give you 2 red points bonus . . . that's how urgently these used fats are needed to make medicines, gunpowder, synthetic rubber, soaps and a hundred other essentials on the battlefield and home front. Keep saving until the last gun's fired!

and that child, or you will find yourself more married to the child than you are to the lady.

A Horrible Example
Blotches History Pages

IT WILL TAKE a lot of words, and virtually all of a derogatory nature, to write off Hitler's place in history. But the pages thereof blighted by this arch criminal should stand as a sententious warning for all future time of the inevitable disastrous result of an uncontrolled dictatorship operating without moral foundation and for the sake of loot through aggression based on sheer might.

President Truman appears assured that this arch fiend of all times against whose bloody acts those of a Nero or a Caligula pale into utter insignificance is dead. Perhaps he has some inside knowledge which he does not divulge confirming that belief, but many are skeptical on this point, including this newspaper. If ever a corpus delicti were needed to round out any mystery it seems needed here. Hitler, Goebbels and the other Nazi gangster leaders may have been killed in battle, may have died of ailments or may have committed suicide, but there is the rather large possibility that they may have been spirited away in new attire with the credentials of some dead soldiers into the underground in order to carry on the Hitlerian mythology, in which event it will be a tough job eventually to rout them out.

Certainly a gibbet and an unmarked pauper's grave are as appropriate for these murderers as they were in the case of the despicable Mussolini and his co-conspirators of the Italian fascist regime, perhaps even more so.

The Hitler character and the Hitler career have presented many strange complexities and contradictions difficult of comprehension. Certainly no stranger or more unsavory character ever paced the world stage. His personality combined the low comedian of the music halls, the ranting of an arrogant demagogue and the savagery of a South Sea island headhunter. Aside from his unprincipled ruthlessness he did for years outsmart the brightest and most polished of the world's diplomats. His effective prosecution of his blitzkrieg warfare made good many of his vainglorious boasts. He demoralized peoples of several lands with a psychological attack unequalled for cunning. He demonstrated how speedily and effectively the character of a whole people could be changed under censorship, child regimentation, the lash of the Gestapo whip and the flash of the headman's axe as instruments of education. But if there is a world lesson here it is to be noted that the instruments were wielded for evil where other and more civilized educational processes might be utilized for good.

What Hitler ultimately achieved, however, was not more living room for his people and the propagation of a new master race, but such widespread suffering and disaster as will leave horrible scars for a hundred years.

But with all his conquests, which at a time placed him as virtual master of all Europe, could he be accredited with the possession of military genius such as would command the admiration of an emperor Napoleon? In view of the three egregious blunders which thwarted his ambitious scheme of world conquest, the answer can be only negative. Those three blunders combined to bring about his downfall much sooner than he would have had any one of them not been committed and, indeed omission may have radically changed the course of world history for the worse.

One blunder was his failure to deliver the knockout punch to Great Britain when at Dunkirk that nation was staggering without adequate defense, there having been nothing in the way of modern troops to guard British shores except a single Canadian division against which Hitler, with the aid of paratroopers, could have marched into London and easily secured it.

The second blunder was the invasion of Russia, which was one of the maddest acts of a mad career. The third fatal mistake was Hitler's deliberate antagonism of the United States of America, thus repeating the blunder of the Germany of the Kaiser. His unrestricted submarine warfare aroused the rage of America and prompted the institution of its unparalleled arms production which eventually spelled the Nazi doom.

For the sake of posterity, let it be hoped that the bodies of Hitler and his associated murderers are produced and disposed of appropriately. And the nation can heartily approve the timely action of President Truman in moving to assure the prosecution and punishment of all those despicable brutes who aided Hitler in his program of loot, murder, destruction and immorality.

Bureau Rule Must Be Checked in Time

IT IS certainly no exaggeration to say that everyone in the country is familiar with rationing. During these war years, practically all of us at one time or another have waited for the wheels within wheels of officialdom to allot its necessities. As necessary as this has been, it is useless, according to the Industrial News Review, for any friend of bureaucracy to claim that the waiting and the filling out of blanks and forms has not been a drag on precious resources and energy. One hundred and thirty million Americans know better! Shiploads of gasoline, thousands of tires, and millions of man-hours have been expended or lost by consumers in responding to the demands of government agencies.

Familiarity with the waste and slowdown effect of bureau regulation may be a blessing. It may result in easier riddance of the system when the war emergency ends. Consumers may heed the warnings of retailers and others who must run businesses under its dead weight. This regulation is so complete that any retailer will tell you the only responsibility left to him in regard to his store is that of holding the sack to meet taxes, bills or bankruptcy. Not only is he regulated in every detail, but he lives with the constant reminder (on countless blanks), that heavy penalties and jail are ever present possibilities. He will tell you that modern mass distribution which has helped give consumers an unprecedented high standard of living, cannot survive this type of regulation in peacetime—and neither can the freedom of the American people.

The wartime emergency rule of the federal bureau must end with a reasonable time after peace, or it will grow until the people have no power to remove it.

Unions for Everybody
Are in Prospect

DEVELOPMENTS of the last few weeks have many Americans wondering whether there is a limit to unionization, and if there is a limit, where is it?

The Senate Agriculture Committee is worried about farm hands joining labor unions. One dairy farm operator told the committee that his employees, though classed as farm workers and hence not under the National Labor Relations Act, were nevertheless forced to join a labor union.

To complicate the matter even further, union leaders and farmers disagree as to who is a farm worker. Congress may be compelled to make the difference clear and particularly so if it is sincere in its fears of what may happen if farm workers do become closely organized and, as a result, are able to control the food production of the country through a union.

Added to the farm problem is the union limit question now disturbing a number of large industries. They are opposed to unions of foremen because they contend that a foreman is a representative of management and hence on the management side of collective bargaining. But unions of foremen exist and some organized foremen have gone on strike, forcing the temporary shutdown of war factories.

Many observers of the national scene believe that if labor unions go much farther in their invasions of the field of management, capital will be forced into more effective defense measures that are now possible in trade organizations conducted within limits prescribed by anti-trust laws.

Already there has been talk of promoting a vast expansion of an existing organization of stockholders. The drive seems to be on to form an investors' union, which will demand a voice in collective bargaining under the threat of calling an investment strike. Too, several minor groups of consumers have banded together and are using the boycott to command a hearing in negotiations that may affect prices. In brief, it looks as if there may be more kinds of unions than Congress ever bargained for.

Able Man Is Chosen
To Guide Baseball

IN CHOOSING A NEW COMMISSIONER, major league baseball obviously has cast aside any idea of finding a duplicate for the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and this may be a wise move. The old czar was a law unto himself. Under any other man the commissionership is destined to be a different post, and baseball undoubtedly had this in mind in choosing Senator A. B. Chandler of Kentucky for the job.

Like Judge Landis, the senator is an ardent baseball fan, but there the resemblance ends. Senator Chandler, as his nickname "Happy" signifies, is as jolly as his predecessor was austere. He is versed in the compromises of politics instead of the rigidities of the law. From all appearances he will be a more easy-going and less autocratic boss than Judge Landis was.

This does not mean that he will not do as good a job. Baseball's needs are different now than they were when Judge Landis took over after the Black Sox scandal more than two decades ago. The game's reputation is secure. What the major leagues want now is a czar who will maintain the good reputation and at the same time, rule baseball with a less dictatorial hand and be able to look after the sport's interests in Washington.

"THE PRINCIPLE OF THE THING"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

That's a useful phrase . . . When you're doing something that you're a little uneasy about you say: "I'm doing it for the Principle of the Thing" . . . That's your defense. That explains everything. You'd like to be kinder, more generous, but the Principle of the Thing stands in your way and of course a man can't go against his principles.

When we do something decent when we help another fellow out of a jam, we don't talk much about our principles. We explain that he was a fine human being and he appealed to our sympathies—and, besides, we wouldn't have been able to sleep at night if we had withheld our helping hand.

But the Principle of the Thing is quite different. Almost always when we talk about that, we are on the defensive. We are explaining and putting in a plea of not guilty—not guilty of stubbornness, not guilty of wanting our own way at the expense of the other fellow.

Once, I remember, I got into a row with a business firm. I wanted something the firm didn't feel inclined to give it to me. I felt mistreated, they felt they were right and hung on and argued. I argued back. I wrote letters. They answered them . . . The squabble lasted for days and even weeks and at last I won or they tired of the wrangling and let me win . . . And then I felt ashamed.

The whole trouble was over a dollar and a half but I never admitted even once that I was fighting for a dollar and a half. No, I was fighting for the Principle of the Thing. I was carrying the banner for the innocent, blameless, eternally right customer . . . So I won, but the victory was hollow.

Pearson Reports Row over Machine Tool Sale Has Split Surplus Property Board

By DREW PEARSON

SAN FRANCISCO—A hot behind-the-scenes fight has developed in the Surplus Property board which affects the industry of the entire nation, especially on the West coast.

It involves the disposition of several billion dollars' worth of machine tools owned by the United States Government and loaned to big war contractors. How these machine tools are sold is going to spell the difference between concentration and diversification of industry for years to come.

For instance, Henry Kaiser, the big West coast boat builder, has ideas about going into the automobile business. He figures that if the West coast can operate some of the biggest airplane factories in the nation, it can also build automobiles. The West coast is dotted with airplane factories all the way from Seattle to San Diego and his skilled mechanics who will be out of jobs after the war. Therefore, Kaiser figures on taking up the slack by making automobiles.

However, the first requirement of the automobile industry, or for that matter any other large-scale manufacturing, is machine tools. Billions in machine tools soon will be disposed of as surplus war property and the companies that get them will control the general peacetime production of the U.S.A. during the immediate years after the war.

If Henry Kaiser could lay his hands on a reasonable quota of the machine tools, for instance, he would have made an important step toward starting the auto industry on the West coast. If not, it would take him two or three years to get other machine tools. Meanwhile, Detroit would have a head start which would be difficult for him to overtake.

Backstage Row

This is where the row inside the Surplus Property board comes in. Ex-Senator Guy Gillette, of Iowa, chairman of the board, believes that independent businessmen, such as Kaiser, should have a chance to bid on these government-owned machine tools.

But Colonel Edward Haller and Ex-Governor Robert A. Hurley, of Connecticut, the two other members, oppose. They believe the companies now using the machine tools, though not owning them, should have first lien on buying them. This would mean that General Motors, one of the biggest war contractors, would get a chance to buy a tremendous amount of machine tools and would get a head start on smaller companies.

Other big auto companies and other big contractors likewise would get a head start on peacetime production if permitted to buy the tools they are now using.

Behind this 2 to 1 split inside the Surplus Property board are also the army, navy and War Production Board, all of whom strongly favor the big companies when it comes to machine tools.

However, Chairman Gillette has the support of the Justice department which has just completed a survey showing that the government controls seventy-five per cent of the best machine tools in the country and that the business firms owning them will dominate industry.

Ex-Senator Gillette also argues that after the last war the big war contractors were permitted to buy in the government's machine tools which they were using, so that they got a tremendous monopolistic head start on reconversion, while small business was left out in the cold.

Note—Interesting fact is that Col. Edward Haller, who has taken a position which would hinder diversification of industry to the West coast, comes from the West coast. Stassen Consults

If bustling Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, ever wants to run for the presidency—as some people say he will—he may find that ex-Governor Harold Stassen, of Minnesota, is one up on him.

It all boils down to the fact that Stassen believes in "consulting." Vandenberg doesn't. That may sound unimportant. But when you are consulting with the heads of large church and fraternal organizations which influence thousands of votes, it makes a difference. The negro consultants at this conference, for instance, probably could swing an election in certain key cities like Pittsburgh, St. Louis, and Kansas City.

Anyway, Commander Harold Stassen, a candidate for the GOP nomination last year, was given one of the cast-off jobs of the conference—consulting with consultants. Nobody quite knew what to do with them, especially Senator Vandenberg. So Stassen took on the task of keeping the consultants informed.

Last week he took them on to explain the dispute over rotating the chairmanship of the conference as urged by Russia and did a very good job of it. He explained that the Soviet believed that all the four inviting powers were equal co-hosts and that you had to try to put yourself in their position and understand their point of view.

Explaining the Soviet demand for three votes in the assembly, Stassen told the consultants:

"What's in Molotov's mind is the fact that the American states on this continent have a vote, and they frequently vote together. Also the British have six votes."

Then Stassen threw open the debate to the consultants and asked them what they thought about different conference developments. He also discussed the question of island trusteeship, explaining that the United States wanted to make certain that never again would it be threatened from the Pacific islands, yet at the same time wanted to make adequate provision for ultimate sovereignty for countries which deserved their independence, such as the Philippine Islands.

The session wasn't very profound, but it was reasonably frank, and gave a pretty good summary of what was happening inside the conference. At the end, one lady consultant remarked:

"I thought I'd come 3,000 miles for nothing, but now I feel that I'm really a part of the conference."

Jap Prisoners

While the United States Army permits Nazi prisoners in United States prison camps to maintain their fascist ways, the Chinese northern guerrillas have just won over 400 captured Jap soldiers and persuaded them to join the Chinese army.

Out of a total of 2,500 Jap prisoners captured, 400 were converted and the other 2,100 were allowed to return to the Jap lines.

They were permitted to return as living proof that the Chinese do not torture their prisoners, but that they were well-fed and healthy. United States observers believe this demonstration may help to reduce the ferocity of Jap resistance and the do-or-die policy of Jap soldiers.

The 400 Jap prisoners, who remained to work with the Chinese, supplied a list of Jap soldiers' gripes—what food the Jap soldier disliked most. What equipment was bad. What he disliked about his officers. From this, propaganda leaflets are being prepared to play up these grievances in pamphlets dropped over the Jap lines.

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 3—Mark Twain would say that money is something like the weather—everyone talks about it; but no one does anything about it. Everyone wants money; only to exchange it for something else. Hence, few do anything to protect it.

What Is Money?

The simple fact is that money of itself is no good. Certainly, this is true of paper money which has no use whatsoever except as a medium of exchange. Money is good only for what it can buy in food, clothing, shelter, education and happiness. Let it, it is very difficult to interest people in these five important things.

Reports the News
In Form of Letter

By DAVID LAWRENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3—Sometimes the news can best be reported in the form of a letter because the news sometimes revolves around one personality. Certainly the news of what has just happened in the United Nations conference is not expressed by the 31-to-4 vote in favor of admitting Argentina nor by the headlines saying Molotov was "defeated."

There's a different story behind it all, and it has a great deal to do with finding a way to preserve peace that appears on the surface. So here is the letter that this correspondent would write to Foreign Commissar Molotov.

"In America we believe in frankness and even in expressing criticism of our own government when we think it is wrong. By the same token, we do not hesitate to agree with the argument of a foreign government if we think it is right."

"In your speech against admitting Argentina you had a good case, but you lost it because you were vulnerable on a vital point. It's a point so intimately related to the maintenance of peace that it is bigger than the question of admitting Argentina or Poland."

Padilla Made Mistake

"For you were arguing—and rightly— that the internal government of Argentina has been Fascist and totalitarian. Conversely, Foreign Minister Padilla, of Mexico, and the speakers from Latin America were mistaken when they insisted that, as a matter of principle, there should be no examination or inquiry into the form of government of another nation as a condition of entry into the United Nations organization."

"What the Latin American statesmen were arguing was an old principle. It may have been considered right prior to the rise of Mussolini and Hitler, but it is too per cent wrong in the world that we have been living in since those dictatorships were imposed. The best proof of this is what has happened to Germany and Italy. The world is today being let in on what has been going on behind the scenes there. Millions of persons inside and outside of Germany, for instance, are learning today for the first time to what depths of bestiality the Nazi party had descended in its terror rule of the German people. A controlled and intimidated press in Germany has kept the truth concealed. Observers everywhere are saying that the German people should never have countenanced what the Nazis did."

"It's easy enough to say that the German people were at fault. But what does that really signify? Only that the world considers that the German people should have long ago defied the Nazi Gestapo and revolted even if it meant a bloody civil war. But what about the rest of the world? Were the other nations right in washing their hands of Nazism between 1933 and 1939, (Syndicate, Inc.)

when they did nothing to influence the action of the German people! Were the other nations right in taking the position that this was merely an internal matter concerning Germany alone?

"But if you are right now that the composition of a government is a proper subject for discussion here and that as a condition of membership a government must conform to basic principles, then what shall we say about the government of Russia, which is still totalitarian, still forbids freedom of speech and suppresses criticism and news dispatches from other countries, and still maintains an attitude of hostility toward certain churches? If it is proper to examine the Argentine government, it is proper to examine the totalitarian nature of the Russian government. That is why your case was weak."

"But we liked your willingness to carry the whole matter into public debate. We liked the fact that you called a press conference to explain your view. We liked, above all, your sportsmanship in accepting the decision of the full assembly here when it outvoted you, and particularly that you were glad to learn that you didn't take offense at any of the points made against you in the debate but participated immediately afterwards in a four-power conference at which harmony and unity gratifyingly prevailed. If the episodes of the last few days called a truce to all our controversial questions by a vote of all governments after full and frank debate, then indeed we have made remarkable progress toward world peace."

PLANES BROUGHT DOWN TO EARTH

AIR TRAFFIC COP—Drawing shows how planes are brought in from distant holding points to a central "stack" and then directed to runways under a control plan now being tested.

New Control System Planned For Mass Flying In The Future

By SHERRY BOWEN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Air traffic control which would permit landing of one plane every three minutes at a large airport, even when approaches to the field must be made by instrument, is claimed for a system developed by Capt. Samuel P. Saint, an engineering pilot for American Airlines.

Air traffic snarls sometimes delay landings an hour or more at such big ports as LaGuardia Field.

New York. Traffic experts believe such waiting may cost two million gallons of gasoline a year, extra operating costs of $4,000,000 a year, and as many as 500 thousand lost man hours.

Capt. Saint believes his system is the best of a number of current plans. Under present practices, planes are held ten to 20 miles from the landing field at different altitudes to prevent collision, then called in for landings one by one.

Under this control system the messages to the planes go from a control man to the dispatcher, thence to a radio operator and finally to the pilot. In bad flying weather this system will handle only about five landings an hour.

Under the Saint system the "stack" of planes is moved much closer to the field. The operations of all the planes are coordinated much as the movement of railroad trains is now controlled under the block system.

Like other proposed methods to improve present practices, the Saint system permits direct communication between the pilot and the control man at the home field. In addition the approaches of the planes are interlocked, so that the second plane to land starts its approach before the first lands.

The top plane of the "stack", flying, perhaps, at 6,000 feet, is already beginning its approach to the field and is directed to progressively lower levels as those levels are vacated by the planes ahead of it.

The system also permits adjustment of the final turn for approach to the field so that the pilot can make his turn long or short to correspond to the position of the plane landing ahead of him.

To achieve these results Saint uses an automatic direction finder. This lets pilots fix their positions in relation to two radio beacons near the field, and reduce the distance needed for accurate approaches in bad weather. Coordinated with the direction finder are instruments which make automatic calculations of time, distance and wind factors. The control man on the ground can relay the essential information to the landing pilot merely by pressing a button.

Like other proposed methods for improved air traffic control, the plan is admittedly only a stop-gap to meet present difficulties while engineers continue to work on programs which will be needed in the future.

Glen A. Gilbert, chief of the Air Traffic Control Division of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, predicts 500 thousand planes in the U. S. within five years—5 thousand commercial, 50 thousand military and 445 thousand private. Air craft experts say such figures might mean 350 landings an hour at a single airport.

Allegany Year Book Staff Will Give Dinner-Dance

Prevue of Allegewi Will Feature Entertainment Tomorrow Evening

Conceiving the idea of having a prevue of the Allegany high school year book, "Allegewi," the year book staff is entertaining with a dinner-dance at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow evening at the A. Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Special guests at the dinner will be Miss Elizabeth Meyers, advisor of the senior class; Leslie Weigel, Johnstown, Pa., printer of the year book; Mrs. Weigel; Charles F. Sprankie, Pittsburgh, Pa., engraver; and Mrs. Sprankie; Ralph R. Webster, principal, and Mrs. Webster; Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and Mrs. Kopp; Harold C. Wickard, advisor for the year book, and Mrs. Wickard.

Barbara Jane Kitzmiller, editor, will serve as toastmaster, and will present complimentary copies of the year book to the guests. Each person attending the dinner will also receive his or her copy. Georgiana Pierce will offer the invocation.

The Allegewi is dedicated to the more than 1,100 graduates who are in the service, and the actual dedication is to the four freedoms, each occupying one quarter of the double page and shown in the book by overprinting in black on the reddish purple full page out of the Four Freedom posters by Norman Rockwell.

A letter to G.I. Joe is the theme of the book and the frontispiece is a double page spread showing a map of the world and from Cumberland, the only city located on the map, lines go out to all the battlefields. It is all in the reddish purple color.

Next is a V-mail letter from Mr. Webster to the boys in service, and the contents page is in the form of the beginning of the letter to the boys. The book is divided into five parts this year, first the administration; second, the classes; third, athletics; fourth, activities; and fifth, "our contribution to the war effort."

Some innovations in this year's book include an illustrated history of the senior year that runs throughout the senior section; individual pictures of the faculty and a more elaborate treatment of the contribution to the war effort; and on the division pages, instead of using a single picture, four are superimposed, and used in such a way as to appear to burst through the V-mail letter.

The cover is ivory with a gold V, which is broken; the name "Allegewi" appears in the break of the V.

Bouquets of spring flowers and candelabra of multi-colored candles will decorate the tables, where covers will be laid for sixty-three guests. Unique place cards have been designed by the staff, with miniature year books in gold and white and the guest name written in the year-book.

The entertainment program will consist of a vocal solo by John Yoder with Barbara Kitzmiller at the piano; Yvonne Rogers will give a reading, "Lazarus," and there will be two numbers by a quartet composed of Theodora Kompanek, Lois Stein, Kenneth Bishop and Donald

A recreation meeting, music and vesper service will be held June 7 in Constitution park. Various games and activities will be conducted during the afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock, and following supper a "get-acquainted hour" will be held from 7 to 7:30 o'clock. The Music and Vesper service will be held from 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

Plans were also discussed for the next meeting of the Junior Extension club, which will be held in the form of an outdoor supper party June 6 at the home of Mary Morgan, at Carlos. The unveiling of the honor roll will feature the program and will be under the chairmanship of Charles Llewellyn. Miss Morgan will be in charge of supper arrangements and members are urged to return the questionnaires.

Endocrine has helped thousands to recapture youthful look of face and throat

Eight years ago, eminent scientists gave the world ENDOCRINE, a sensational contribution to the beauty of the feminine face and throat. Today, ENDOCRINE is aiding thousands to regain the charm of a youthful skin to a degree hitherto thought impossible. This it does by helping to improve the skin itself, not merely its superficial appearance. ENDOCRINE, you know, is the only face cream that contains ACTIVOL. This precious ACTIVOL is a scientific replacement for woman's own natural skin-vitalizing substance. When you apply ENDOCRINE, it is absorbed by the skin and helps to restore the normal growth of cells and tissues. It thus aids the skin to recapture its youthful freshness, firmness, smoothness and allure. What bigger value can one get for her cosmetic dollars than this? You, too, should try ENDOCRINE. Many report truly astonishing results in only 30 days.

A SHAVE, soup and sandwiches, cigarettes, some swing music and a smile—with these, the Red Cross air evacs, who greet ambulance planes on arrival, lighten the wounded's road home from the fronts.

By BERNICE GOETZ
Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON — As the sturdy C-54 puts down on the runway — perhaps in Iceland or Bermuda, Ascension Island or Natal — its precious cargo of wounded throws off some of their apathy. Three more stops . . . more ships . . . one . . . HOME.

But it's a devious route, even by air, from battlefield to the United States. So, at the request of the base and light surgeons, the American Red Cross has set up a program at air transport command stopovers to help lighten the tedium of the trip.

The pattern is largely the same at all the bases. An ETA (estimated time of arrival) message notifies the Red Cross of the plane's imminent landing and by the time it rolls to a stop, they are waiting on the airstrip ready to go aboard.

JEWELRY STORE
62 BALTIMORE ST.

Planes are no respecter of hours and the program goes on all around the clock, so shifts have been arranged for the "air evacs" of twenty-four hours on duty and forty-eight hours off.

When they board the plane one takes the cockpit, the other the tail. They check with the flight nurse and traffic clerk on special cases and special diets and find out what comfort articles are required. Then the hospital crew is relieved for other duties and the Red Cross assumes charge until take-off.

A bright-eyed fellow in the bottom litter tugs at the coat sleeve of a worker and asks, "Isn't this Meeks Field?" She answers, "Yes, weren't you here last June?" He looks up at her laughing face and comes back, "That's right. I was a little green then myself."

Another patient from above calls, "Gee, she speaks English. Hold my hand. I'm dreaming." From across the aisle a soldier asks he old stand-by, "Where you from?"

Chatting gaily, the girls help the ambulatory patients off the plane to the transients' club near the airstrip — time, weather and health permitting.

Warm food, brought to the club in chests from one of the base kitchens is set on tables around the clock. Whichever meal it is, the menu is as "stateside" as facilities permit, with ham and eggs, milk, and ice cream doing double duty.

"The look on the face of the boy who hasn't seen ice cream for two years is enough to justify the existence of us all here," said one of the air evacs recently.

Magazines, books, cigarettes, a photograph machine, often a radio, are distributed around the club making it as pleasant a spot as possible wherein to spend a few hours.

The furniture is softly cushioned. A handicraft project is underway now at one of the stops to devise bamboo backrests and tray holders for the litter patients.

After mealtime one soldier asks for writing materials to send a letter home. Another sits in a corner reading. Barbering is not in the daily routine but now and then a GI receives a shave and haircut.

The stopovers are usually no more than fifty minutes, but occasionally, if the plane is detained, movies are shown. One base boasts a singing trio among its permanent personnel. If certain patients are too ill to be moved, they are fed aboard the plane. Some can balance trays on their chests. Others require hand-feeding.

There was the case of a paratrooper with a chest wound who announced that he wouldn't eat a meal. His appetite improved, however, when a smiling girl played wait-ess to him.

Radios and game kits are brought right onto the plane to amuse these wounded. When, occasionally, the planes "remain at a base overnight, the patients are moved to Army or Navy hospitals in the area.

Each plane loaded carries aboard individual problems which the air evacs try valiantly to solve. A transport flew into Stephenville Field, Newfoundland, one morning with a litter patient who said his brother was stationed at this field. The brother was "ought to the plane.

The two men hadn't seen each other for three years and they chatted softly about home and how it was "over there." All too soon the plane departed.

"Gosh, it was good to see him again," the patient told the Red Cross girl just before the take-off.

A sailor who had been severely wounded during unloading operations off Normandy landed in Greenland. "It seems like I've been in dungarees for months," he said. "I wish I could just see a mate in dress blues again. And if he'd be from Philadelphia — well, that would be swell."

In fifteen minutes, the Red Cross worker brought a youngster slick and shiny in his blues. Pittsburgh was the closest he'd ever been to Philadelphia but it was good enough for the sailor.

More important to the men than the meals and the games, the magazines and movies, is the lift they get from talking to an American girl.

An assistant field supervisor, who recently completed a survey of the

ATC bases serviced by the American Red Cross, said, "Such is the demand at all stations for more evacuation workers adapted to this special duty that we expect to give trainees a special classification and direct training along that line."

Pfc. James Howie Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Wilson, 543 North Mechanic street, in a letter dated April 12 to his parents, described certain conditions in Germany as he saw them.

Local Warrant Officer Describes Wild Jeep Ride in Germany

After being separated from his fast moving armored outfit in Germany, Warrant Officer (J. G.) William M. Long finally caught up with his unit after a wild jeep ride, according to a letter recently received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Long, 516 Columbia avenue.

"What a ride!" Warrant Officer Long wrote. "I was riding between two colored soldiers—a driver and his assistant. The driver took us over the roads in a hell-bent-for-election manner. The speed was okay because I wanted to locate the outfit before nightfall, but it was the way he took the curves which had me scared."

Warrant Officer Long said that the driver's assistant also became nervous and was unable to take a nap before taking his turn at the wheel.

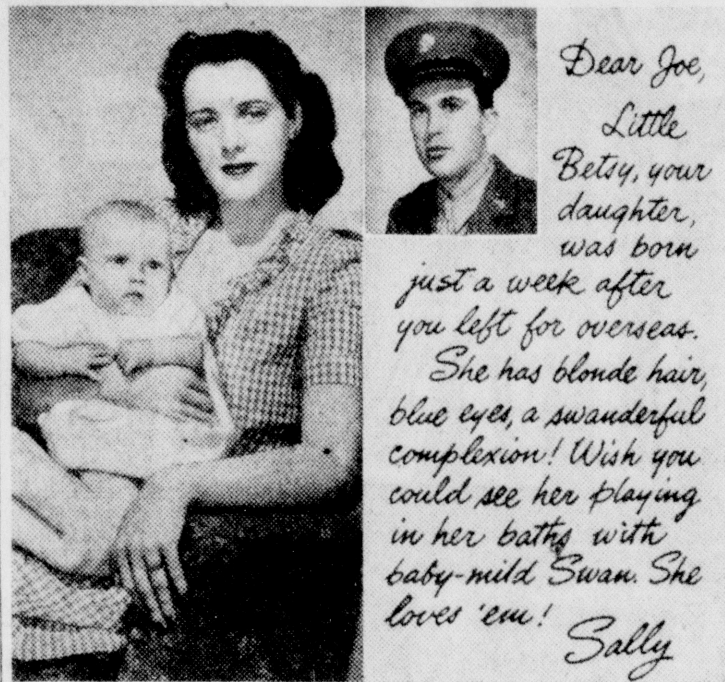

"After enduring quite a bit of punishment," the letter continued, "he turned to the driver and said, 'I've got a wife and two kids at home I hope to see again.' The driver replied, 'I have too,' but the

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling up, rashes, itching, indigestion, and the "yearning" for sweets. Frequent or "stagnant" passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Frostburg Group To Give Operetta Friday, May 11

Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience" Will Be Given at College

By RUDOLPH NICKEL
FROSTBURG, May 3.—The next dramatic event to be held here in local scholastic circles will be the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Patience," or "Bunthorne's Bride." The operetta will be presented by the students of Frostburg State Teachers' college in the college auditorium Friday, May 11, at 8 p. m., under the direction of Prof. Maurice Gatteson, head of the music department.

Piano accompaniments for the entire program will be played by Miss Nancy Gibney, accompanist for the Maryland Singers. Two choruses of numbers will be featured in the production. One will be sung by a group of five-sick maidens, all seeking the solution of the problem, the poet of himself in a raffle to determine who shall be the lucky bride. The maidens are Beverly Beckman, Mary Bess, Virginia Caplinger, Anna Helen Cooke, Janice Friend, Mary Kay Keyser, Helen Kreiling, Mary Llewellyn, Doris Marshall, Barbara Martin, Shirley Matthews, Grace Moore, Emma Morgan, Mary Ott, Tillie Over, Jackie Penney, Betty Poffenberger, Mary Grace, Betty Schlunt, Doris Snyder, Lois Storey and Christine Welsh.

Meanwhile, a chorus of "dragon guards" jealously make their presence known. Those portraying the "guards" are Phyllis Matthews, Mary Couchman, Gloria Nesbitt, Mary Workman, Eva Cook, Christine, Margaret, John Weller, Irene Weller, Betty Welsh and Sarah Stotler.

Has Important Job
Lawrence A. Minick, Frostburg, the man on whom Seventh AAF operator crews depend in case of emergencies on their missions over the Philippines.

With five other parachute riggers at Palau base, Minick inspects and tests about fifty parachutes a day. He also inspects the "Mae West" preserves which all crews wear over-water missions. The parachute is dried in a mothproofed bag, inspected over every square inch and then refolded and packed with great care to insure their infallible opening in case they have to be used.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Minick, reside in Frostburg and his wife, the former Ruth Burley, lives with her parents, on Route 1, Hyndman, Pa. He was graduated from high school in 1936. Two brothers, James and Elmer, are also in the service.

Lewis Gives Recital
Representing the Teachers' department, Lewis, a student, gave an informal piano recital today under the direction of Prof. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson at the Brunswick high school.

Lewis announced his own program and explained the type of various numbers, including "Pathétique" by Beethoven; Chopin's "Scherzo, Opus 31," and others.

A student at the college for three years, Lewis won the Phi Omicron Delta sorority musical contest in 1942. He will give a piano recital at the college here in the near future.

Service Notes
Pfc. G. Woodrow Layman, former set of the Frostburg Fire Department, has received the army Good Conduct ribbon and has been transferred to a center in France for fifteen days, according to word received by his wife, Mrs. Pauline Layman, East Main street. Pfc. Layman, who has been overseas one year, is serving with the heavy engineering outfit in some of the heaviest fighting on the western front. His father is R. Olin Layman, local hardware merchant.

When the church service is concluded, a celebration has been arranged for the school house lawn. A committee composed of C. B. Hiett, Stanley Hawse and R. S. Dispanet, was appointed to arrange this celebration. J. D. Anderson will take his sound system out and the mayor is to be asked to close all business houses by proclamation.

A PRAYER FOR WAR DAYS

Father give me

A steadfast heart these days!

I cannot understand

The ghastly pain and waste—

The needless blundering

and cruelty—

But still I see

That there is purpose

Looming large above all chaos,

And that Your plan

Is taller than all strategy

Of war.

Help me to believe this
Even in the darkest hours—
Help me to remember beauty even when

The skies go black with hate—

And men drown, strangling,
For a blasted dream.

Though my own dreams break,
And all my hope deserts me—

And life becomes a dreary, senseless waste—

Still let my faith burn in me

Like a star—

And let it ring me round with peace

That neither hate nor horror

Can destroy—

A deep, wise, peace

As calm and constant

As Your own unwavering soul.

Nor strong nor wise,
Nor can I understand this torn world—
But this I ask—
This is my constant prayer,
However small my part
In life's great plan—
Give me a steadfast heart, my
Father,
In your plan these days—
Give me a faith on which
All frightened souls may rest—
A calm which may be healing
As Your gentle hand.

Which lifts the flesh
From out its grave of fear,
And sets it burning
Like the evening star.
Give me a steadfast heart, my
Father—
Even though my spirit faints—
A heart which may be as a haven
To those frightened
In the dark.

Amen!

WEAK, TIRED PEOPLE

Here's Important News That May Make a Big Difference in Your Life

I NEVER SAW
SUCH A CHANGE
IN A PERSON

Somewhat New Tonic Supplies Vital Substances Often Lacking in Diet

ARE you one of those people who are not sick, yet seldom feel your best? Are you frequently tired and so dragged out life hardly seems worth living? Are you inclined to feel nervous and irritable; appetite poor? If the reason is that you're not getting enough iron and Vitamin B₁ and G, here's thrilling news.

One of the foremost laboratories of the country has developed a tonic called Pursin for people in such condition. A remarkable preparation which works two basic ways to help nature build up strength and energy.

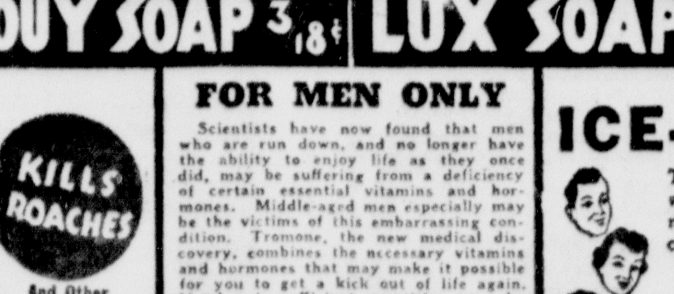

First, Pursin is rich in iron. And you know how important it is for your system to get sufficient iron. Second, Pursin contains precious Vitamins B₁ and G. These vitamins help stimulate appetite—aid digestion—promote better assimilation. That's why you get more and get more good from the foods you eat.

If you are feeling below par because your system may lack sufficient iron or Vitamins B₁ and G, do this. Go to your drug store today and ask for Pursin. Take it regularly and see if it doesn't help you feel joyfully alert again. A McKesson Product.

It's Egg Coddlin' Time

CREAMED MUSHROOMS AND EGGS . . . meat substitute.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS

Associated Press Food Editor

This is the season when eggs are most plentiful, and we're due to have a good supply. This fact becomes particularly important in view of the lack of meat and other protein foods which confront us.

Here are some new and interesting egg recipes to help you take full advantage of their abundance:

Creamed Mushrooms and Eggs
4 oz. can mushrooms (Or 1/2 cup cooked mushrooms)
1/2 cup evaporated milk
4 hard cooked eggs (kept hot)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Drain mushrooms from liquid and pour liquid into measuring cup. Add water to liquid sufficient to make one cup. Add the 1/2 cup evaporated milk. Slice the hard cooked eggs about 1/2 inch thick. Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Add mushrooms and saute to delicate brown. Add flour and mix smooth. Add salt, pepper and liquid. Stir over low heat until creamy and rich. Spread 4 slices toast with butter or margarine and then with anchovy paste. On this toast arrange the sliced eggs. Pour prepared mushrooms in sauce over top. Garnish with watercress. Serve hot. Serves 4.

Tomato and Mushroom Baked Eggs
6 firm (slightly under-ripe tomatoes)
6 eggs
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 oz. can mushrooms, stems and pieces

Wash tomatoes; cut off tops. Hollow out center and set aside. Sprinkle hollowed center with garlic salt and pepper. Drain mushrooms from liquid, adding liquid to pulp hollowed out of tomatoes. Chop the mushrooms fine. Divide half the mushrooms between the six tomatoes. Break an egg carefully into each tomato. Cover lightly with remaining minced or chopped mushrooms. Dot tops with butter or margarine. Place tomatoes in baking pan. Season tomato and mushroom liquid with salt and pepper. Add remaining butter or margarine. Heat and pour around tomatoes. Cover tomatoes with tomato "tops." Bake in moderate oven until tomatoes are cooked and eggs are set. Serve each tomato cup on piece of hot toast. Spread with butter or margarine. Serves 6.

Scrambled Eggs with Strawberries
4 eggs
2 teaspoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup sliced strawberries
Dash salt

Beat eggs lightly with a fork and add water and salt. Melt butter or margarine

MRS. MORRISON'S Chocolate Pudding
You add a little sugar but you get a full quart

In heavy saucepan, 8 eggs and stir over very low heat until scrambled to the degree of moistness that you prefer. Add sliced strawberries. Fold in with just one or two folds and serve at once. Serves 3.

Eggs Diablo
4 teaspoons butter or margarine
1 clove garlic
1 small onion
minced
1 cup tomato pulp
1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon powdered thyme
1/4 teaspoon powdered basil
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper
8 eggs

Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Split garlic and into each half stick a toothpick. Saute 2 or 3 minutes in melted fat. Add onion and cook over low heat about 10 minutes. Add tomato pulp and remaining seasonings. Continue to cook for another 10 minutes. Remove garlic. Pour sauce into oblong glass baking dish. Then into this sauce, break 8 eggs, spacing them evenly. Cover tightly. Bake in moderate oven until eggs "set." To serve, edge dish with toast points, spread with butter or margarine. Serves 4-5.

Eggs Poached with Mushrooms
2 teaspoons margarine or butter
4 oz. can sliced mushrooms (Or 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms)
4 eggs
4 slices freshly made toast

Melt butter or margarine in a large, heavy frying pan. Add can of mushrooms with liquid or sliced mushrooms (if fresh mushrooms are used, make 1/4 cup mushroom liquor by simmering stems and peelings of mushrooms in water for 20 minutes). Heat gently. Sprinkle with oregano, salt and pepper. Break eggs carefully into the frying pan, spacing them evenly. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat 3 to 5 minutes. Serve on hot toast. Garnish with watercress. Serves 4.

Preserve Woolens

After washing and rinsing wool blankets, dip them quickly in a weak solution of warm water and soap flakes to restore the oil to the wool. This will insure their softness.

Cheese Money

In ancient times cheese was used to measure wealth among the tribes of Asia and Southern Europe.

Baked Potatoes

To bake potatoes faster, remove a one-inch cylinder from the end of each potato with an apple corer before putting them in the oven.

Vegetable Tip

Have water boiling rapidly and salted before placing vegetables in it and bring the water back to a boil quickly.

Canned Fish Oil

When using canned fish such as salmon, tuna and sardines be sure to use the oil and skin to obtain the full amount of vitamin D.

Salvation Army Will Hold Victory Services

Capt. Robert S. Ball, commander of the Salvation Army here, announced yesterday that both the Citadel, on North Mechanic street, and the South Cumberland outpost, Virginia avenue, will be open for services when the announcement comes that the war in Europe has ended.

Capt. Ball said that if the war ends before evening, plans call for an open air rally at 7 p. m., followed by worship service, which will include prayers and songs of Thanksgiving, and singing of victory numbers.

If the announcement comes after 7 p. m., the rally will be held the following evening. Both the Citadel and the South Cumberland outpost will be open continuously for members or non-members who wish to pray.

Two Persons Missing

Police reported last evening that the search for Dorsey Grant Hebb, 33, Spring Gap, W. Va., and Martha Calhoun, 13, of 26 Mertens street, Ridgeley, W. Va., is still continuing.

House Interstate Committee Studies Disc Royalties, Other Petrillo Activities

CAMP CLOSED—J. E. Maddy

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The wings of James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, termed a "czar" and "dictator" by his opponents, may be clipped by Congress.

The House committee on interstate and foreign commerce, of which Rep. Clarence P. Lea (D., California) is chairman, has begun an inquiry to determine what action can be taken.

The launching of the inquiry coincided with a demand by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that coal operators pay a 10-cent royalty on each ton of coal mined, the money to be used for miners' benefits.

The mine union leader's demand was apparently patterned after a similar request made by Petrillo during negotiations with manufacturers of phonograph records.

Petrillo obtained a royalty of upwards of one-quarter cent a record—approximately $4,000,000 a year—for his union's unemployment fund.

The record manufacturers capitulated after a lengthy dispute during which President Roosevelt

made an unsuccessful attempt at conciliation.

Lea said the record dispute—which some members characterized as "extortion"—was only one of Petrillo's activities that the committee intended scrutinizing.

The committee now has before it a bill already approved by the Senate—without a dissenting vote—aimed at Petrillo. Its passage by the House is apparently assured, but Lea's committee left it was not broad enough.

The bill would ban interference with the broadcasting of non-commercial cultural or educational programs. It was introduced in the Senate by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Michigan), as an outgrowth of the A. F. of L. union ban placed in June, 1942, on broadcasting from the National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich. The American Federation of Musicians later broadened the ban to include all broadcasting of student music.

However, Joseph E. Maddy, founder and president of the camp, a non-profit summer school of orchestral music, questioned whether the bill would have the desired effect. He disclosed that four days after the Vandenberg bill was approved by the Senate Jan. 15 the camp was placed on the union's blacklist.

Maddy explained that unless the camp was taken off the union's blacklist it would be unable to reopen next summer as all the teachers, including himself, are members of the musicians' union.

Maddy termed Petrillo "an arrogant labor leader," who "by distorting powers and immunities properly conferred by Congress on labor unions in general, and by persuasive use of those powers... now operates a four-million-dollar extortion racket, dominates two great industries, and regulates the lives of many thousands of American citizens."

After listening to Maddy's testimony, the committee decided to broaden its inquiry with the aim of reporting out more stringent legislation.

Petrillo's failure to appear himself at the hearings or to send a representative in response to an invitation angered committee members.

Commented Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R., Ohio), acidly: "Maybe he is doing with Congress the same thing he did with the president, assuming a defiant attitude. It's my opinion that Petrillo has asked for it and it's about time Congress let him have it."

Lea indicated that the committee will delve into:

- 1—The use of threats to prohibit certain programs from going on the air.
- 2—The dispute between the musicians' union and record manufacturers.
- 3—The use of "stand-by" union orchestras whose members are paid while non-union orchestras are employed or records played.
- 4—The employment by radio stations of union members, known as "pancake turners," to handle transcriptions. An AFM representative said this was in effect only in Chicago.

This series of hilarious radio shows will be heard over Station WTBO at 12:15 p. m. Sunday, 12:15 p. m. Tuesday, 12:15 p. m. Thursday and 1:00 p. m. Saturday, May 5.

Six Major Loop Players Appear Sure of Records

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—At least six major league players appear virtually certain to establish new records this year, with three of them pitchers. Frank Hayes, of the Athletics, needs only forty-nine more games to pass Ray Mueller's iron mark of 217 straight games without being hit. Lopez, of the Pirates, needs seventy-three to overtake Gabby Hartnett's lifetime mark of 217 straight games without being hit. Athletes Called Victims of Draft Discrimination

Rep. Price's Complaint Starts War Department Investigation

By BUS HAM
WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—A complaint by Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) that professional athletes are victims of draft discrimination has started a War Department investigation, and Price predicts a change in regulations "in a few days."

The congressman disclosed today that he had protested to the department that some athletes are being inducted into the army even though they cannot meet physical requirements.

He received a reply from Undersecretary of War Patterson saying: "I have asked the inspector general (Major General Virgil L. Peterson) to make an investigation into the manner in which the War Department directs in regard to induction of professional athletes are being administered."

As war mobilizer, James F. Byrnes, since resigned, cracked down on professional athletes December 23, 1944, writing Selective Service Director Hershey to review the military qualifications of such persons.

Price said he is "not asking for a special break for athletes but only a fair deal."

One regulation provides that when any professional athlete is rejected on account of physical condition his case must be sent to Washington for review.

The history of many of these cases is that they are automatically inducted regardless of their physical condition," Price said.

He mentioned to Patterson the case of Danny Litwiler, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, now in service, saying that the following notation was placed on Litwiler's service record:

"This registrant cannot be considered a soldier against your quota whether he is called by the army or navy because he does not meet the minimum requirements for military training."

Standards Not Lowered
Price said that Patterson told him there has been no lowering of induction physical standards. This is a particular point that the War Department's investigation is expected to cover, Price indicated.

"If the army were not showing racial discrimination against ball players, it certainly would not accept a man for military service, like Litwiler and numerous others, who can not meet the minimum physical requirements," Price said.

Price also urged that induction of all players ordered in the past month be deferred until the War Department's investigation has been completed.

Paul Waner Given Release by Yanks

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Paul (Big Poison) Waner was handed his unconditional release today by the New York Yankees on the eve of their first long trip of the 1945 season.

Waner joined the Yanks last fall after drawing the pink slip from Brooklyn where he had batted .287 in eighty-three games. Appearing in nine games as a pinchhitter for Joe McCarthy's men, the 42-year-old veteran collected only one hit in seven at bats. He walked his only time up in the 45 campaign.

The elder brother of the famous brother team that played the outfield for Pittsburgh in the 1927-40 era, broke in with San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League in 1923 and spent two years there before coming to the Pirates, a year ahead of Brother Lloyd.

During his twenty-year big league career, Waner collected 3,125 hits, scored 100 or more runs in nine seasons, set a modern record by getting 200 or more hits in a season for the eighth time in 1937, made six hits in six successive at bats in 1926 and led the league in batting in 1927, 1934 and 1936.

Released by Pittsburgh in 1940, Waner signed with Brooklyn in early 1941 but became a free agent and caught on with the Boston Braves in May of the same year. Cut loose by the Braves in January, 1943, he again became a Dodger and remained at Ebbets field until he made his American League debut last fall.

Chandler Names Leslie O'Connor His Special Aide

Office of Baseball Commissioner Will Be Moved to Cincinnati

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—The office of baseball commissioner, located in Chicago during the twenty-four-year regime of the late K. M. Landis, will be moved to Cincinnati, Commissioner-elect A. B. (Happy) Chandler disclosed today.

Indicating it may be "longer than expected" before he resigns from the United States Senate, the Kentucky legislator also announced he had named Leslie M. O'Connor, secretary to Landis, as "special assistant" and appointed Walter W. Mulbry, his Senate secretary, as successor to O'Connor.

Chandler asserted at his first Chicago press conference that he had decided to establish his office in Cincinnati, probably at the Netherland Plaza hotel. O'Connor, who told newsmen he would serve as Chandler's assistant for one year, will continue to run the Chicago office until it is closed.

Mulbry will be in charge of the Cincinnati office until Chandler winds up his Senate job. Chandler said that the state of international affairs might keep him in Washington longer than he anticipated and pointed out that Landis did not resign from his federal bench until a year and a half after his election as commissioner.

"I won't draw salaries for both jobs," he declared.

He declared he would keep the game "free from race-track gambling or any other kind of gambling." He said he would continue to attend the Kentucky derby, but would not wager.

He promised to "drive out of baseball forever" any players guilty of fixing. Judge Landis was able to do it, he said, "and I'm determined to keep the game as clean."

Questioned by a representative of the Chicago Defender, negro newspaper, about negro players in the major leagues, Chandler said he would invite negro leaders to "sit across the table and talk this problem over."

PAUL CLAPPER, FORMER HYNDMAN HI ATHLETE, IS NOW A CAPTAIN

HYNDMAN, Pa., May 3—Paul Clapper, former Hyndman high athlete, was commissioned a second lieutenant in England, promoted to first lieutenant in France and then elevated to captain, his present rank, in Germany.

Capt. Clapper participated in the invasion of Normandy with the Twenty-ninth division. While fighting in Germany, he received a twisted knee and it was while he was recuperating in a hospital in Belgium that he learned of his latest promotion. He was out of the fight only ten days due to his injury and is now back in combat.

After graduating from Hyndman high in 1939, Capt. Clapper played baseball with the Hyndman Eagles in the Bi-State League and with Staunton, Va., in the Class D Bi-State circuit. A right-handed pitcher, he could hold down almost any other position if the situation demanded.

Capt. Clapper entered officer's candidate school in England while a private first class. His brother, Cpl. Rollo Clapper, is with the marines on Okinawa.

Corcoran Promotes a Natural In Nelson-Snead Golf Match

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
NEW YORK, May 3—It won't be long now—May 26, to be exact—before PGA's Fred Corcoran will be saying:

"Here they are folks, the greatest golfers of the country—Slammin' Sammy Snead, the Hot Springs, Va. hotshot, and Battlin' Byron Nelson, Toledo's torrid stroke master!"

Under his breath Corcoran probably will be saying: "I hope!"

It's like this, Corcoran is the professional golfers' promoter. He's supposed to see that the golf bugs' interest is kept at a high pitch. It was Fred's idea that Snead and Nelson meet for seventy-two holes for the association's rehabilitation fund.

Promoter Corcoran got the flash for the match when Snead came out of the navy last winter. Sammy picked up where he left off as the "links" biggest money winner B.N. (Before Nelson), when he defeated 1944's golfer of the year in three straight opens.

Since then, the slamming one hasn't been doing so well. In case his wins have slipped your mind, they were the big Portland open, the Richmond and Los Angeles events on the winter tour.

Then Nelson regained his touch (that was in March), and he hasn't been beaten since. Byron won five tournaments in a row while Snead was struggling to make pars.

It's only right to reveal though that Sammy has been troubled with a back ailment which often forces him to readjust his swing. When that happens, he's just another golfer. Otherwise, he's a champ to beat.

Of course Corcoran can point out that Snead has been hitting the ball harder than ever, and the navy has improved his temperament. Also, that the golfing touch is an elusive thing which comes and goes.

Nelson, of course, doesn't need any buildup. Just say that he will play thirty-six holes at the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, N. Y., on May 26, and thirty-six holes the following day at the Essex County Country Club, West Orange, N. J. Then, put up the ropes.

The Lord Byron topped all shot-makers with his earnings last year. He made the lowest seventy-two-hole score ever recorded with his 263 in the Atlanta tournament. He's plenty hot.

But, don't sell Snead short.

Fields Are Available To Rocking Chair Loop

President Arthur "Lob" Brant, of the Rocking Chair Softball League, has solved the problem of securing suitable playing fields for the loop's Tuesday and Thursday games, but another problem faces the circuit following the announcement Wednesday that Henry Hart Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, had decided to withdraw from the wheel.

Brant said yesterday that officials of the Central Y.M.C.A. Sunday School Softball League agreed at a conference held at the "Y" to transfer all Thursday games listed on their schedule for the Fort Hill and Allegany diamonds, two fields used by the Rocking Chair loop in recent years, either to Wednesday or Friday dates or to other diamonds.

The league proxy indicated that at a meeting to be held next Monday night at 8 o'clock at the K. of C. home, it will be decided whether to operate with six or seven clubs.

Beall and Bruce Seniors To Hear Rabbi Lieberman

Lecturer Will Appear in Frostburg, May 31 and Westernport, June 1

Dr. George B. Lieberman, rabbi, lecturer and literary critic, will be the principal speaker at the annual commencement exercises of Beall high school, Frostburg, and Bruce high school, Westernport. He was announced yesterday by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county public schools.

Dr. Lieberman, who is rabbi at McKinley Avenue Temple, Canton, Ohio, will address the graduating class at Beall high school on Thursday, May 31 at 8 p. m., and is scheduled to speak to the seniors at Bruce high school, Friday, June 1 at 8 p. m.

Lecturer in literature at West Liberty Teachers college, West Liberty, W. Va., Dr. Lieberman formerly was spiritual leader of historic Eoff Street Temple in Wheeling, W. Va.

Received Community Award
He was the recipient of the 1940 Community Award given to outstanding citizens as a gesture of public appreciation for his spiritual leadership. The citation he received stated that "he made inspiring addresses before civic groups of all kinds and has expounded a spiritual view of literature and common sense philosophy of religion which have enriched both religious and civic life, and have promoted a tolerance so greatly needed."

As one of the younger men in the American ministry, Rabbi Lieberman has attracted wide attention for his scholarship, eloquence, wit and spiritual outlook. As lecturer and literary analyst he has appeared before different educational, religious and civic organizations in many cities. A skilled linguist, he knows much of the best in world literature in the original, and through his travels and early life has been a witness to history in the making. He was awarded the degree of Doctor of Literature, "the youngest man in America to receive a doctorate honoris causa."

Dr. Lieberman appeared in Cumberland one year ago at which time he gave inspiring talks at meetings sponsored by the Woman's Civic Club and the Ber Chayim Temple Sisterhood and B'nai B'rith Chapter.

Legislator To Speak Here
Orlo M. Brees, of Endicott, N. Y., member of the New York State Legislature, will be the principal speaker at commencement exercises in Port Hill high school, Thursday, May 31, and Allegany high school, Friday, June 1. A Republican in politics, Brees is serving his third successive two-year term in the General Assembly of the Empire state.

Former Sailor Is Divorced by Wife

Mrs. Gladys Margaret Fox, Meadville, Pa., formerly of Coriaville, has been granted an absolute divorce from Richard Kenneth Fox, a discharged sailor, in a decree signed in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

Mrs. Fox and her husband each receive the custody of two of their four children. Fox was ordered to pay her $30 monthly for support of the two children whose custody she receives. He also was ordered to pay the costs of the case. Urner G. Carl was her attorney.

Mrs. Sueanna M. Dawson, Cumberland, was granted an absolute divorce from Fred P. Dawson in another decree signed by Judge Huster. Mrs. Dawson receives the custody of their daughter and Dawson was ordered to pay her $8 weekly for the child's support.

In accordance with an agreement, Dawson is to receive a table model radio, radio text books and instruction course, his clothing and title to an automobile. Mrs. Dawson retains the remainder of the personal property in her possession. Thomas Lohr Richards was her attorney.

Mrs. Margaret D. Stuyvesant has been granted an absolute divorce from Ralph Stuyvesant in a decree signed by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper. Julius E. Schindler was her attorney.

Mrs. Ethel McKendzie Northcraft has been granted an absolute divorce from James Northcraft and was given custody of their minor child. Paul M. Fletcher was her attorney.

New Citizens Are Invited To Attend Patriotic Rally

All persons of foreign birth who have become American citizens in the past year will be invited to participate in the "I Am An American Day" exercises to be presented in the Port Hill high school stadium, Sunday, May 20, under the auspices of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

This announcement was made last evening following a meeting of the "I Am An American Day" committee, of which James W. Beacham, is chairman.

Names of those who became naturalized over the past twelve months will be obtained from records at the court house, the committee announced.
